"(ll) make such supplementary provision as may be necessary or expedient to give effect to reciprocal arrangements entered into with Indian States under section 82A;".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Trade Marks Act, 1940, is only effective in British India. There are many Indian States who have either passed Trade Marks Acts of their own on the lines of the Trade Marks Act of 1940, or propose to do so in the near future. The commercial community, however apprehend that separate registrations in a number of territories in India would be a great financial burden on them, apart from the embarrassment and confusion that would arise as the result of conflicting trade marks being registered in various territories in India. The States who have enacted or propose to enact legislation for trade marks registration have realised the seriousness of the problem, and have expressed their willingness to enter into reciprocal arrangements with the Government of India in this matter. The proposals in the Bill which are explained in the Notes on Clauses have therefore been designed with a view to avoiding conflict of registration in various Indian States and also to make trade marks registered in any territory effective in all territories in India in which trade marks legislation has been enacted. Provision has also been made for the delegation of the statutory powers of the Registrar of Trade Marks to other officers in addition to the Deputy Registrar.

2. Corresponding amendments will be made in the Trade Marks Acts of the Indian States so that infringement actions on trade marks and certification of trade marks registered in British India may be filed in any of the reciprocating Indian States, thus making it unnecessary for the proprietor of a trade mark to register a trade mark more than once in India.

NEW DELHI;
The 18th February, 1946.

Notes on Clauses.

Clause 2.—As a result of the reciprocity arrangements arrived at between British India and the Indian States, the work of the Trade Marks Registry will considerably expand. It has therefore been thought necessary to give the Registrar of Trade Marks the power to delegate his authority not only to the Deputy Registrar of Trade Marks but also to such other officers as are appointed by the Central Government.

Clause 3.—The amendment is for the purpose of taking into consideration all trade marks which are registered in India so as to avoid the registration of conflicting marks.

Clause 4.—The amendment is for the purpose of making the principle underlying section 19 applicable to trade marks which are registered in Indian States.

Clause 5.—(a) The purpose of omitting the words "if valid" is to make it impossible for any court to go into the question of validity of registration in an infringement action unless rectification proceedings are taken. Where a trade mark has been registered in British India and an infringement action is filed in an Indian State, it will not be open to the Indian State to challenge the validity of the registration in British India. That can be done only by the aggrieved party taking rectification proceedings in British India.

(b) This clause renumbers the present section as sub-section (1) and adds a further sub-section in order to implement the reciprocal arrangement which has been arrived at between British India and the Indian States.

Clause 6.—This clause is for the purpose of extending the protection of sub-section (3) of section 22 to trade marks which are registered in Indian States.

Clause 7.—This amendment is consequential on the provision now made by new sub-section (2) of section 21.

Clause 8.—An Explanation is added to the section to make it quite clear that a person who is registered in an Indian State is to be included in the expression "person aggrieved" so that he may be in a position to oppose the registration of a mark which conflicts with the mark registered by him in an Indian State.

Clause 9.—(a) and (b) correspond with the amendments in clause 5. Clause 5 deals with trade marks and clause 9 deals with certification trade marks.

Clause 10.—This clause corresponds with the amendment in sub-section (3) of section 22 referred to in clause 7.

Clause 11.—(a) Under section 68 it was first notified by Government that the section would come into operation on the 1st January 1946. Having regard to the representations made by the commercial community, that notification was cancelled and another notification issued to the effect that the section would come into operation on the 1st January 1947. It is considered doubtful whether the first notification can be superseded by the second. In order, however, to remove doubts, the section is amended so as to come into operation on or after the first day of January 1947, being the date fixed by the latest notification.

(b) The new sub-section (4) is suggested for the purpose of avoiding any hardship to an applicant who has made an application for the registration of a trade mark before the 1st January, 1947, and which has been unavoidably delayed. Sub-section (5) is consequential upon the reciprocal arrangement which has been arrived at between British India and the Indian States.

Clause 12.—This clause enables the Central Government to enter into reciprocal arrangements with Indian States, and when such reciprocal arrangements have been arrived at between British India and the Indian States, the names of such States will be notified in the official gazette. This clause and clause 5 and 9 are the main operative clauses in the Bill.

Clause 13.—This amendment is consequential on the suggested new section 82A.

Clause 14.—This enables the Central Government to make such rules as may be necessary having regard to the new sections introduced by this Bill.

(Dr.) G. V. DESHMUKH.

By order of the Governor,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Legislative Assembly Department.

The following Bill* was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 18th February 1946:—

L. A. BILL NO. 17 OF 1946.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Coinage Act, 1906.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Coinage Act, 1906 (III of 1906), for the purposes hereinafter appearing;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. Short title and commencement.—(1) This Act may be called the Indian Coinage (Amendment) Act, 1946.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint.

2. Amendment of section 6, Act III of 1906.—In section 6 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1906, for the words "an eight-anna" the words "a fifty-cents" shall be substituted.

3. Insertion of new section 14 in Act III of 1906.—After section 13 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1906, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"14. Decimal system of coinage.—(1) The rupee, half-rupee and quarter-rupee shall be respectively equivalent to one hundred cents, fifty cents and twenty-five cents, and shall, subject to the provisions of section 12 and to the extent specified therein, be a legal tender in payment or on account accordingly.

(2) All coins issued under the authority of this Act in any denominations of annas and pies shall, to the extent specified in section 13, be a legal tender in payment or on account at the rate of sixteen annas or one hundred and ninety-two pies to one hundred cents, calculated in respect of any such single coin, or number of such coins, tendered at one transaction, to the nearest half-cent, or where the half-cent above and the half-cent below are equally near, to the half-cent below.

(3) All references in any enactment or in any notification, rule or order under any enactment or in any contract, deed or other instrument to any value expressed in annas and pies shall be construed as references to that value expressed in cents converted thereto at the rate specified in sub-section (2).".

*The Governor-General has been pleased to accord the previous sanction required by section 153 of the Government of India Act, 1935, to the introduction of this Bill in the Legislative Assembly.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The existing series of small coins below four annas which were introduced as a war-time expedient, have proved unsatisfactory and unpopular, and the large recoinage programme which their reversion to the pre-war standards entails offers a unique opportunity for introducing a decimal system of subsidiary coinage in place of the present coinage system whereunder the rupee is divided into 16 annas and each anna into 12 pies. Modern trade and commerce demand speed and simplicity in the methods of computation, to achieve which there is nothing to compete with the decimal system which has gradually displaced all other systems in most of the advanced countries of the world. Public opinion has expressed itself largely in favour of the adoption of decimal coinage in India and the object of this Bill is to amend the Coinage Act for this purpose.

A. ROWLANDS.

NEW DELHI:
The 4th February 1946.

Note on clause 3.

With the division of the rupee into 100 cents the existing coins will not correspond to an exact number of cents in all cases. During the transition period when both the anna and the cent coins will circulate side by side and prices might be quoted in terms of either, it is necessary to provide for conversion involving fractions of cents. As it is not proposed to issue cent coins of a smaller denomination than a half-cent, the Bill provides for conversions involving smaller fractions, to be made in rupees of any one transaction at the nearest half-cent, and where the amount involved is a quarter cent to the nearest half-cent below.

34. Travelling expenses of members of the Board.—Ordinarily members of the Board will not be expected to charge the Gurdwaras for minor travelling expenses. But they will be eligible to take travelling allowances in accordance with such rules that may be framed in this behalf by the Board.

35. Power of the Board to frame bye-laws.—Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Board may frame bye-laws at a general meeting for the working of all the Committees and the Board and such bye-laws shall be published for general information. Any change in any of the rules shall be made only in such manner as the rules themselves may have been framed and all such changes shall not take in final shape unless approved of by the Board of Management.

36. Bar to employment under the Board.—No person who is in any way related to any Member of the Board or any office holder of any of the committees constituted thereunder shall, at any time be eligible to or seek any employment under the Board or in any of the Gurdwaras under any of the committees constituted under this Act. 37. Resignations of members of the Board or the Committees.—Resignations of any of the members or office bearers of the Board or committees shall be accepted or rejected by the Board or the committee concerned.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

There are many important historical and other Gurdwaras in the Delhi province and some of them have large properties attached thereto. It is desirable to enact a measure to provide for their better management and administration. Similar legislation had already been passed in the Punjab and N.-W.F. Province. This Bill is brought forward to achieve this object and will meet with the wishes of the Sikh Community.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Legislative Assembly Department.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 14th February, 1946:—

L.A. BILL NO. 16 OF 1946.

A Bill further to amend the Factories Act, 1934.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Factories Act, 1934 (XXV of 1934), for the purposes hereinafter appearing;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. Short title and commencement.—(1) This Act may be called the Factories (Amendment) Act, 1946.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint.

2. Amendment of section 34, Act XXV of 1934.—In section 34 of the Factories Act, 1934 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), for the words "fifty-four" and "sixty" the words "forty-eight" and "fifty-four" shall be respectively substituted.

3. Amendment of section 36, Act XXV of 1934.—In section 36 of the said Act, for the words "ten" and "eleven" the words "nine" and "ten" shall be respectively substituted.

4. Amendment of section 38, Act XXV of 1934.—In section 38 of the said Act, for the word "thirteen" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

5. Amendment of section 44, Act XXV of 1934.—For sub-section (4) of section 44 of the said Act, the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:—

"(4) An order under sub-section (2) shall remain in force for such period, not exceeding two months from the date on which notice thereof is given to the manager of the factory, as may be specified in the order:

Provided that if in the opinion of the Provincial Government the public interest so requires, the Provincial Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the operation of any such order for such period, not exceeding six months at any one time, as may be specified in the notification."

6. Amendment of section 45, Act XXV of 1934.—In the first proviso to sub-section (1) of section 45 of the said Act, for the word "thirteen" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

7. Amendment of section 47, Act XXV of 1934.—In section 47 of the said Act, for sub-sections (1) and (2) the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:—

"(1) Where a worker—

(a) in a non-seasonal factory works for more than nine hours in any day or for more than forty-eight hours in any week, or

(b) in a seasonal factory works for more than nine hours in any day or for more than fifty-four hours in any week,— he shall be entitled in respect of the overtime worked to pay at the rate of one-and-a-half times his ordinary rate of pay."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Factories Act provides for maximum working hours of 54 and 60 for perennial and seasonal factories respectively. The daily limits are 10 and 11. The Washington Convention of 1919 prescribed a limit of 48 hours a week in industrial undertakings, though a special exemption was made for India where a limit of 60 hours was allowed. Accepting the recommendation of the Royal Commission on Labour the present limit of 54 hours was fixed for perennial factories and incorporated in the Factories Act, 1934. Over ten years have since elapsed and in more progressive countries like the United States of America, France and Belgium a 40-hour week is in operation in certain industries. The Government of India consider that a 54-hour week is indefensible and the limit should be reduced to 48 in all perennial factories, a corresponding reduction from 60 to 54 being made for seasonal factories. The Bill provides for this and also for a corresponding reduction in the daily limits by an hour a day.

2. Section 47 of the Act prescribes payment for overtime at two different rates. Overtime is to be discouraged as far as possible and there is little justification for having two rates. The Bill provides for payment for overtime at a uniform rate of one and a half times the ordinary rate. Also while there is no serious objection to the worker in a seasonal factory working up to 10 hours a day the payment for overtime should equitably be on a uniform basis and work in excess of a standard of 9 hours a day should be remunerated alike whether in a perennial or seasonal factory. Incidentally the Bill will rectify an omission in the Act in that no overtime payments have now been provided for working over 11 hours a day in a seasonal factory.

3. Exemptions granted during the war by which certain factories were permitted to work beyond the limits fixed in section 34 will have to continue for some time in a few cases, e.g., in the textile industry for so long as there is cloth shortage in the country. The amendment proposed in section 44 will achieve this object when such exemptions are required in the public interest.

4. The measure is urgent and will afford immediate relief to factory workers who admittedly have worked at great strain during the long period of the war.

28K. Unfair practices by employers.—The following shall be deemed to be unfair practices on the part of an employer, namely:—

(a) to interfere with, restrain, or coerce his workmen in the exercise of their rights to organise, form, join or assist a Trade Union and to engage in concerted activities for the purpose of mutual aid or protection;

(d) to discharge or otherwise discriminate against any workman because he has made allegations or given evidence in an inquiry or proceeding relating to any matter such as is referred to in sub-section (1) of section 28F;

(e) to fail to comply with the provisions of section 28F.'

5. Amendment of section 29, Act XVI of 1946.—(1) To sub-section (1) of section 29 of the said Act the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that the making of regulations under this section for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of Chapter IIIA shall be deemed to be a purpose of that Chapter within the meaning of section 28A."

(i) after the word "registered' the words "or recognised" shall be inserted;

7. Insertion of new section 32A in Act XVI of 1926.—After section 32 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"32A. Penalty for unfair practices.—Any employer who commits any unfair practice set out in section 28K shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It has long been felt that with existing conditions in India, there should be some obligation on the part of employers to recognise Trade Unions provided they are truly representative. The Trade Unions Act, 1926, provides for registration of the unions, but there is no obligation on the employer to recognise any registered trade unions. The Royal Commission on Labour pleading for recognition in the spirit as well as in the letter, deprecated obligatory recognition feeling that it would not secure genuine and full recognition which the Commission desired to seek. The position has not, however, improved in regard to voluntary recognition by employers. The Bill, therefore, provides for obligatory recognition of representative trade unions. The question as to whether a trade union is representative or not will, in the event of dispute, be considered by an Industrial Court to be set up for the purpose.

2. The Bill specifies certain acts as unfair practices on the part of recognised trade unions and certain other acts as unfair practices on the part of employers. Provision has been made enabling withdrawal of recognition where an unfair practice is committed by the executive or members of a recognised trade union or when the trade union has ceased to be a representative trade union or on the failure of the trade union to submit any return prescribed in the Bill. An unfair practice on the part of an employer has been made an offence punishable with fine.

(i) no allowance shall be made in respect of any previous year after the previous year in which the cessation takes place, and

"but, where such persons have no other personal income chargeable under this Act and none of them is an artificial judicial person, as if such income, profits or gains or such part thereof were the total income of an association of persons".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to give concessions to the tax-payer mainly for the purpose of encouraging the modernisation and rehabilitation of industry and trade. The proposals include provisions for special initial depreciation allowances in respect of new buildings, plant and machinery, for the allowance of expenditure (both capital and revenue) on scientific research, for obsolescence allowances in respect of buildings used for the purpose of a business, profession or vocation and for obsolescence allowances in respect of machinery or plant that has been demolished or destroyed. In order to encourage the erection of new buildings in the next two years the proposals also include provisions for a two years exemption in respect of such buildings the income of which is assessable under the head "property" and an additional initial depreciation allowance of 5 per cent. in respect of such buildings if used for the purpose of a business, profession or vocation. The clauses are explained in the notes below.

A. ROWLANDS.

NEW DELHI;
25th February 1946.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2.—If a building the income from which is assessable under the head "property" is begun and completed between the 1st April, 1946, and the 31st March, 1948, the income therefrom would be exempt under this clause for two years from the date of completion. The clause mainly applies to buildings which are not used by the owner for the purposes of his business.

Clause 3 (a)(i) proposes special initial depreciation allowances for new buildings, plant and machinery. In the case of buildings the rate will be 10 per cent. of the cost and in the case of plant and machinery 20 per cent. But for buildings begun and completed between the 1st April, 1946, and the 31st March, 1948, the rate will be 15 per cent. The allowance is not to be deducted in computing the written-down value and it is not to be given for excess profits tax purposes (see Finance Bill).

Clause 3(a)(ii) amends sections 10(2) (vii). At present what is known as "obsolescence allowance' is given only if plant or machinery is sold or discarded and it is not given in the case of buildings. The amendment proposes to extend the allowance to buildings and to enlarge it so as to include the demolition or destruction of the buildings, plant or machinery. But if any insurance, salvage or compensation moneys are received in respect of these assets, these moneys, if they are less than the written-down value minus the scrap value, will be deducted from the allowance admissible and, if they are greater, the excess will be taxed to the extent of the difference between the original cost and the written-down value less the scrap value. As clause (vii) stands at present, if machinery or plant is sold for more than its original cost, the excess over the original cost is taxable. As now proposed to be amended, the excess over the original cost will not be taxable.

Clause 3(a)(iii).—This clause proposes to allow expenditure on scientific research related to a business or to the class of business carried on. The first two items, viz., revenue expenditure by the assessee on such scientific research and sums paid to research associations or institutions, will be allowed in the assessments of the profits of the year in which the expenses were incurred. The other item, viz., capital expenditure, will be allowed in five consecutive equal instalments and will be given also in respect of such expenditure incurred not more than three years before the commencement of the business. Provision is also made for allowing the difference between the residual value of an asset representing such expenditure and the amount allowed in the yearly instalments. Other provisions in connection with the allowance safeguard the revenue position, e.g., prevent double allowances or excessive allowances. A provision in the Finance Bill is designed to give retrospective effect for one year to the grant of this allowance.

Clause 3(b) is designed to safeguard the revenue against an assessee who might seek to take unfair advantage of the provisions regarding depreciation and obsolescence. As the law stands and as it is proposed to be amended in this Bill, apart from this sub-clause, an assessee might, for example, occupy a building as a residence for many years and when the time to scrap it was drawing near bring it into use for the purpose of his business. Without this amendment he would, if he scrapped or demolished the building a year later, get an allowance of the whole of the difference between the original cost and one year's depreciation allowance. It is proposed therefore that in cases like this the written-down value will be the cost less the depreciation that would have been allowable at existing rates and on the written-down value basis if the building had been used for the purposes of the business from the date of its acquisition. It is not proposed to give retrospective effect to the provision.

Clause 4 is consequential on clause 3(a)(ii).

Clause 5.—Under the proviso in question tax is leviable at the maximum rate where the income is not specifically receivable on behalf of any one person or where the individual shares are indeterminate and unknown. This causes hardship in some cases, for example, in cases of trusts for the maintenance of widows and children where the total income is small. The amendment proposes therefore that tax should be levied in such cases at the rate applicable to the trust income.

original cost and the written down value less the scrap value shall be deemed to be profits of the previous year in which such moneys were received;"

(iii) clause (xii) shall be renumbered as clause (xv), and after clause (xi) the following clauses shall be inserted, namely:—

"(xii) any expenditure (not being in the nature of capital expenditure) laid out or expanded on scientific research related to the business;

(xiii) any sum paid to a scientific research association having as its objects the undertaking of scientific research related to the class of business carried on, and any sum paid to a university, college or other institution to be used for such scientific research:

Provided that such association, university, college or institution is for the time being approved for the purposes of this clause by the prescribed authority;

Provided that no allowance shall be made for any expenditure incurred more than three years before the commencement of the business:

Provided further that—

(a) where an asset representing scientific research expenditure of a capital nature ceases to be used for scientific research related to such business—

(i) no allowance shall be made in respect of any previous year after the previous year in which the cessation takes place, and

(f) clause (b) of the proviso to clause (vi) shall apply in relation to deductions allowable under this clause as it applies in relation to deductions allowable in respect of depreciation;

(g) if any question arises under clause (xii), clause (xiii) or this clause as to whether, and if so to what extent, any activity constitutes or constituted or any asset is or was being used for, scientific research, the Central Board of Revenue shall refer the question to the prescribed authority, whose decision shall be final;

Explanation.—In clause (xii), clause (xiii) and this clause—

(i) "scientific research" means any activities in the fields of natural or applied science for the extension of knowledge;

(ii) references to expenditure incurred on scientific research do not include any expenditure incurred in the acquisition of rights in, or arising out of, scientific research, but, save as aforesaid, include all expenditure incurred for the prosecution of, or the provision of facilities for, the prosecution of scientific research;

(iii) references to scientific research related to a business or class of business include—

(a) any scientific research which may lead to or facilitate an extension of that business or, as the case may be, all business of that class;

(b) any scientific research of a medical nature which has a special relation to the welfare of workers employed in that business or, as the case may be, business of that class;

(c) in sub-section (5), after the word "Provided" in the proviso the word "further" shall be inserted, and before the said proviso the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:—

"Provided that in the case of a building previously the property of the assessee and brought into use for the purposes of the business, profession or vocation after the 28th day of February 1946, 'written down value' means the actual cost to the assessee reduced by an amount equal to the

Notices.

3. If in any case the District Health Officer considers that the issue of a notice under these regulations is likely to lead to such an amount of delay as might facilitate the spread of cholera he may forthwith take such step as he may think fit for carrying out the work, and shall thereafter, as soon as possible, issue a notice on the person concerned stating the reason why such work has been carried out.

4. If any measure which the District Health Officer has, by a notice issued under these regulations, required to be carried out, be not carried out to his satisfaction within the time stated in the notice the District Health Officer shall be entitled to carry out the measure.

27. The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may for the prevention of the outbreak or spread of cholera order the owner or occupier of any land to repair or make efficient to the satisfaction of that officer or inspector any drain, sewer, privy, urinal or cesspool which is situated upon such land or to remove any such drain, sewer, privy, or urinal or close any such cesspool within such time as may be fixed by the said officer or inspector.

29. The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may require the owner or occupier of any land to clear and remove, within the period specified in the order, any vegetation upon such land the existence of which in the opinion of the said officer or inspector conduces to the committing of nuisances upon such land.

30. The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may issue general orders that by a specified date certain sanitary precautions of a simple nature, such as lime-washing of houses, clearing of latrines or the removal of filth or rubbish shall be carried out to his satisfaction.

31. The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may prohibit persons from retaining or selling clothes taken from the bodies of persons who have died of cholera and may cause any such clothes to be destroyed.

36. The District Health Officer may order that no dome or other servant of the Board employed for the disposal of corpses shall withdraw from his duties without the permission of the District Health Officer unless such dome or other servant of the Board has given notice in writing not less than one month previously of his intention so to withdraw.

37. The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may through any person authorised by such officer or inspector in that behalf seize and dispose of any corpse, which in the opinion of the said officer or inspector, is infected with or is likely to spread cholera, unless the relatives or friends of the deceased person satisfy him that they are prepared and able to dispose of the corpse in a manner which will prevent the spread of cholera.

38. (1) The District Health Officer or Sanitary Inspector may require any person who appears to be acquainted with facts in connection with any case of cholera or suspected cholera to attend before him at a time to be stated in the order and at any place not more than one mile from the place where such person resides or is staying when the order is issued, and such person shall appear as so required.

(2) When the person summoned to appear under paragraph (1) is a female who, by the custom of the country, does not appear in public, suitable precaution shall be taken to respect the said custom.

39. (1) The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may examine orally any person who appears to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of a case of cholera or suspected cholera.

(2) When the person to be examined under paragraph (1) is a female who, by the custom of the country, does not appear in public, the officer shall take her statement under such conditions as shall admit of due respect to the said custom.

(3) Such person shall be bound to answer all questions relating to such case put to him or her by such officer, other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him or her to any criminal charge.

40. The District Health Officer or a Sanitary Inspector may, with such assistants (if any) as he thinks fit, enter upon any land, or after two hours' notice in writing, into any premises or buildings used for human habitation at any time between sunrise and sunset for the purpose of carrying out any measure or making any enquiries authorised by these regulations.

(iii) The nearest relative of a patient or the occupier of the house in which the patient is staying shall, if a copy of the order under regulation 11 has been served upon him, give to the nearest Sanitary Inspector or to his office, immediate notice of any disobedience of the order by the patient.

Jalpaiguri.—No. P.H. 2R-11/46.—24th April 1946.—Whereas the Governor is satisfied that the district of Jalpaiguri is threatened with an outbreak of cholera:

Now, therefore, in exercise of the power conferred by section 2 of the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897 (Act III of 1897), the Governor is pleased to prescribe the following temporary regulations for the prevention and control of cholera, and for the medical inspection, isolation, observation and surveillance of persons suffering from, or suspected of being infected with, cholera in the said district:—

Temporary regulations for the prevention and control of cholera.

1. In these regulations, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context:—

(c) "Board" means a District Board constituted under the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885;

(d) "Union Board" means a Union Board constituted under the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 (Bengal Act V of 1919);

2. Whenever any land is held jointly by two or more persons, whether as owners or occupiers of that land, such persons shall be held jointly and severally liable for carrying out any measure ordered in a notice under these regulations, and the names of any one or more of such joint-holders may be entered upon such notice at the discretion of the District Health Officer and the District Health Officer shall not be bound to enter the names of all the joint-holders in the notice.

Notices.

3. If in any case the District Health Officer considers that the issue of a notice under these regulations is likely to lead to such an amount of delay as might facilitate the spread of cholera he may forthwith take such step as he may think fit for carrying out the work, and shall thereafter, as soon as possible, issue a notice on the person concerned stating the reason why such work has been carried out.

4. If any measure which the District Health Officer has, by a notice issued under these regulations, required to be carried out, be not carried out to his satisfaction within the time stated in the notice the District Health Officer shall be entitled to carry out the measure.

Costs and compensation.

5. 2. The Bill provides for fixation, by the Provincial Governments, of minimum wages for employments covered by the Schedule to the Bill. The items in the Schedule are those where sweated labour is most prevalent or where there is a big chance of exploitation of labour. After a time, when some experience is gained, more categories of employments can be added and the Bill provides for additions to the Schedule. A higher period is allowed for fixation of minimum wages for Agricultural labour as administrative difficulties in this case will be more than in the other employments covered by the Schedule. The Bill also provides for periodical revision of the wages fixed.

3. Provision has been made for appointment of Advisory Committees and Advisory Boards, the latter for co-ordination of work of the Advisory Committees. The Committees and the Boards will have equal representation of employers and workmen. Except on initial fixation of minimum wages, consultation with the Advisory Committees will be obligatory on all occasions of revision.

4. In cases where an employer pays less than the minimum wages fixed by Provincial Governments, a summary procedure has been provided for recovery of the balance with penalty and for subsequent prosecution of the offending party.

5. It is not ordinarily proposed to make any exemptions in regard to employees of undertakings belonging to the Central Government except that difficulties might arise where the sphere of duty of such an employee covers more than one Province and when the rates of minimum wages fixed by the different Provinces may be different. For this purpose, a provision has been included that the minimum wages fixed by a Provincial Government will not apply to employees in any undertaking owned by the Central Government or employees of a Federal railway, except with the consent of the Central Government.

9. Gifts whenever made where donor not entirely excluded.—Property taken under any gift, whenever made, shall be deemed to pass on the donor's death, if bona fide possession and enjoyment of it was not immediately assumed by the donee and thenceforward retained to the entire exclusion of the donor or of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise:

Provided that the property shall not be deemed to pass by reason only that it was not, as from the date of the gift, exclusively retained as aforesaid, if, by means of the surrender of the reserved benefit or otherwise, it is subsequently enjoyed to the entire exclusion of the donor or of any benefit to him for at least three years before the death.

10. Limited interests disposed of within a certain period before death.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, where an interest limited to cease on a death has been disposed of or has determined, whether by surrender, assurance, divesting, forfeiture or in any other manner (except by the expiration of a fixed period at the expiration of which the interest was limited to cease), whether wholly or partly, and whether for value or not, after becoming an interest in possession,—

(a) if apart from the disposition or determination the property in which the interest subsisted would have passed on the death under section 4, that property shall be deemed by virtue of this section to be included as to the whole thereof in the property passing on the death; or

(b) if apart from the disposition or determination the property in which the interest subsisted would have been deemed by virtue of section 6 to be included to a particular extent in the property passing on the death, the property in which the interest subsisted shall be deemed by virtue of this section to be included to that extent in the property passing on the death.

(2) Where the relevant disposition or determination was bona fide effected or suffered not less than three years before the death (or, if it was effected or suffered for public or charitable purposes, not less than one year before the death), the preceding sub-section shall not have effect—

(a) if bona fide possession and enjoyment of the property in which the interest subsisted was assumed immediately thereafter by the person becoming entitled by virtue of or upon the disposition or determination and thenceforward retained to the entire exclusion of the person who had the interest and of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise; or

(b) in the case of a partial determination, if the conditions specified in the preceding paragraph were not satisfied by reason only of the retention or enjoyment by the deceased of possession of some part of the property, or of some benefit, by virtue of the provisions of the instrument under which he had the interest;

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed as affecting any charge of estate duty arising otherwise than by virtue of the provisions of the preceding sub-section.

(3) In the application of sub-section (1) to a case in which an incumbrance on the property in which the interest in question subsisted has been created by associated operations (as hereinafter defined in section 25) which included a disposition of that interest, references to that property shall be construed as references to that property free from the incumbrance, except in a case in which the incumbrance was created for consideration in money or money's worth which was applied for purposes calculated to maintain or increase the value of that property, and, in that case, shall be construed as references to that property subject to the incumbrance to the extent to which the consideration was so applied.

11. Settlements with Reservation.—Property passing under any settlement made by the deceased by deed or any other instrument not taking effect as a will whereby an interest in such property for life or any other period determinable by reference to death is reserved either expressly or by implication to the settlor or whereby the settlor may have reserved to himself the right by the exercise of any power, to restore to himself or to reclaim the absolute interest in such property shall be deemed to pass on the settlor's death.

Explanation.—A settlor reserving an interest in the settled property for the maintenance of any of his relatives (as defined in section 25) or of himself and any of his relatives shall be deemed to reserve an interest for himself within the meaning of this section.

12. Joint Investments.—Property which a person, having been absolutely entitled thereto, has caused to be transferred to or vested in himself and any other person jointly, whether by disposition or otherwise, including any purchase or investment effected by the person who was absolutely entitled to the property, either by himself alone, or in concert, or by arrangement, with any other person, so that the beneficial interest in the property, or in some part of it, passes or accrues by survivorship on his death to the other person, shall be deemed to pass on the death.

13. Policies kept up for a donee.—Money received under a policy of insurance effected by any person on his life, where the policy is wholly kept up by him for the benefit of a donee, whether nominee or assignee, or a part of such money in proportion to the premiums paid by him, where the policy is partially kept up by him for such benefit, shall be deemed to pass on the death of the assured.

14. Annuity or other interest purchased or provided by the deceased.—Any annuity or other interest, including moneys payable under policy of life assurance, purchased or provided by the deceased, either by himself alone or in concert or by arrangement with any other person shall be deemed to pass on his death to the extent of the beneficial interest accruing or arising by survivorship or otherwise, on his death.

Explanation.—The extent of the beneficial interest must be ascertained without regard to any interest in expectancy which the beneficiary may have had therein before the death.

15. Annuity or other interest purchased or provided out of property derived from the deceased.—(1) Section 14 shall have effect in relation to any annuity or other interest that was purchased or provided wholly or in part by any person who was at any time entitled to, or amongst whose resources there was at any time included, any property derived from the deceased, as if that annuity or other interest had been provided by the deceased, or, if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Board that the application of all the property derived from the deceased would have been insufficient to provide the whole of that annuity or other interest, as if a similar annuity or interest of an amount reduced to an extent proportionate to the insufficiency proved had been provided by the deceased:

Provided that for the purpose of determining whether there would have been any such insufficiency as aforesaid, and the extent thereof, there shall be excluded from the property derived from the deceased any part thereof as to which it is proved to the satisfaction of the Board that the disposition of which it, or the porperty which it represented, was the subject-matter, was not made with reference to, or with a view to enabling or facilitating, the purchase or provision of the annuity or other interest, or the recoupment in any manner of the cost thereof.

(2) In this section the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, namely:—

(a) "property derived from the deceased" means any property which was the subject-matter of a disposition made by the deceased, either by himself alone or in concert or by arrangement with any other person, otherwise than for full consideration in money or money's worth paid to him for his own use or benefit, or which represented any of the subject-matter of such a disposition, whether directly or indirectly, and whether by virtue of one or more intermediate dispositions and whether any such intermediate disposition was or was not for full or partial consideration;

(b) "disposition" includes any trust, covenant, agreement or arrangement; and

(c) "subject-matter" includes, in relation to any disposition, any annual or periodical payment made or payable under or by virtue of the disposition.

(3) For the purpose of section 31 the deceased shall be deemed to have had an interest in any property included by virtue of this sections in the property passing on the death of the deceased.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO TRANSFERS TO COMPANIES.

16. Property transferred to a controlled company.—(1) Where the deceased has made to a controlled company a transfer of any property (other than an interest limited to cease on his death or property which he transferred in a fiduciary capacity), and any benefits accruing to the deceased from the company accrued to him in the three years ending with his death, the assets of the company shall be deemed for the purposes of estate duty to be included in the property passing on his death to an extent determined in accordance with sub-section (2) of this section.

(2) The extent to which the assets of the company are to be deemed to be included as aforesaid shall be the proportion ascertained by comparing the aggregate amount of the benefits accruing to the deceased from the company in the last three accounting years with the aggregate amount of the net income of the company for the said years:

Provided that—

(a) where, in any of the said accounting years, the company sustained a loss, the amount of that loss shall be deducted in ascertaining the said aggregate net income of the company;

(b) where the company came into existence in the last year but one, or in the last, of the said accounting years, the references in this sub-section to the said accounting years shall be construed as references to the last two, or, as the case may be, the last, of those years.

(3) The assets of the company which are deemed to be included in the property passing on the death of the deceased by virtue of this section shall include any assets thereof which have been disposed of or distributed by the company at any time between the beginnnig of the first of the accounting years aforesaid and the death of the deceased, either—

(a) in or towards satisfaction of rights attaching to shares in or debentures of the company, or

(b) otherwise howsoever except as follows, that is to say, by way of sale for full consideration in money or money's worth received by the company for its own use and benefit, or in or towards discharge of taxes or rates or other liability imposed by or under an enactment, or in or towards discharge of a fine or penalty or of a liability for tort incurred without collusion with the injured party, including assets which have been so disposed of or distributed in a winding up, whether continuing at or completed before the death:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply to assets disposed of or distributed by way of payments from which income tax was deductible, or which were assessable to income tax, of amounts not exceeding in the aggregate, as respects payment made in any accounting year or in the period between the end of the last accounting year and the death of the deceased, the amount of the income of the company for that year or period.

(4) The Board may make rules—

(a) prescribing the class of companies which shall be deemed to be controlled companies and the class of dispositions or operations which shall be deemed to be transfers;

(b) prescribing the matters to be treated as benefits accruing to the deceased from such a company, the manner in which their amount is to be determined, and the time at which they are to be treated as accruing;

(c) prescribing the manner in which the net income and the value of the assets of such a company are to be determined;

(d) prescribing the manner in which the accounting year is to be reckoned;

(e) prescribing the manner in which the shares and debentures of such a company passing upon the death of the deceased are to be valued for estate duty;

(f) prescribing the conditions upon which and the extent to which transactions in the name of such a company shall be deemed to be bona fide transactions for full consideration; and

(g) generally for the purpose of checking the avoidance of estate duty through the machinery of such a company.

(5) For the purposes of section 31 the deceased shall be deemed to have had an interest in the property deemed by virtue of this section to be included in the property passing on his death.

17. Duty of company and officers of company to give information to Board on death of transferor.—(1) Where the deceased has made a transfer of property to a controlled company as described in section 16 the company shall be under obligation to inform the Board within one month from the date of the death of the deceased, of the death, of the fact that the deceased made a transfer of property to the company, and of the fact that benefits accrued to the deceased from the company, and every person who was an officer of the company at that date, or if the company has been wound up and dissolved before that date, who was an officer of the company at any time, shall be under the like obligation as respects such of the facts aforesaid as are within his knowledge, unless he knows, or has reasonable cause for believing, that the information in question has already been given to the Board by the company or some other person.

(2) If the company or any such person as aforesaid who is under obligation by virtue of the preceding sub-section to give any information to the Board makes default in the performance of that obligation, the Board may impose upon the defaulter a penalty not exceeding Rs. 1,000.

18. Collection and incidence of duty under section 16.—(1) The following persons shall be accountable for the duty payable on the death of the deceased by virtue of section 16, namely:—

(a) the company;

(b) any person (other than a bona fide purchaser for full consideration in money or money's worth received by the company for its own use and benefit) who receives, whether directly from the company or otherwise, or disposes of, any assets which the company had, whether as capital or as income, at the death or at any time thereafter;

(c) any person who received any distributed assets of the company on their distribution:

Provided that a person shall not,—

(i) by virtue of clause (b), be accountable in respect of any assets for any duty in excess of the value of those assets, or

(ii) by virtue of clause (c), be accountable in respect of any assets for more than a part of the duty bearing to the whole thereof the same proportion that the value of the distribution of those assets bears to the principal value of the assets of the company passing on the death by virtue of section 16.

For the purposes of this sub-section the expressions "distributed assets" and "assets of the company passing on the death" do not include any distributed assets of the company which the deceased received on their distribution; and a person who, having received any distributed assets of the company, has died before the deceased shall be deemed to have been a person accountable by virtue of clause (c) of this sub-section.

(2) Where a company incorporated outside British India is accountable for any duty by virtue of the preceding sub-section or of this sub-section, every person who is a member of that company at the death shall also be accountable for a rateable part of that duty in proportion to the value of his interest in that company.

(3) A person accountable for any duty by virtue of this section shall, for the purpose of raising and paying the duty, have all the powers conferred on accountable parties.

(4) On a winding up of the company, sub-section (1) of section 230 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 (VII of 1913), shall have effect as if there were included in clause (a) of that sub-section a reference to any duty payable in respect of assets of the company passing on a death by virtue of section 16 of this Act, and section 129 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 (VII of 1913), shall have effect accordingly.

(5) The duty payable on the death of the deceased by virtue of section 16 shall be a first charge by way of floating security on the assets which the company had at the death or has at any time thereafter, and any part of the duty for which by virtue of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of this section any person is accountable in respect of any distributed assets shall be a first charge also on those assets:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall operate to make any property chargeable as against a bona fide purchaser thereof for valuable consideration without notice.

(6) Where any duty has been—

(a) paid by a person accountable therefor by virtue only of clause (c) of sub-section (1); or

(b) raised by virtue of sub-section (5) out of any distributed assets charged therewith;

that person or, as the case may be, the person who was entitled to those assets subject to the charge, may (without prejudice to any right of contribution or indemnity which he may have apart from this sub-section) recover the amount of the duty so paid or raised as aforesaid from any person who is accountable therefor otherwise than by virtue of the said clause (c).

(7) No part of the duty paid by the company shall be recoverable by it from any person on the ground only that he is entitled to any interest in, or to any sum charged on, the assets which the company had at the death of the deceased.

(8) The provisions of sub-sections (1) and (3) of section 48 shall not have effect in relation to the duty payable by virtue of section 16.

PART III—EXCEPTIONS FROM THE CHARGE OF DUTY.

19. Foreign property.—(1) There shall not be included in the property passing on the death of the deceased—

(a) immovable property situate outside British India;

(b) movable property situate outside British India at the time of the death except—

(i) in the case of settled property of which the deceased was a life tenant, if the settlor was domiciled in British India at the time the settlement took effect;

(ii) in the case ot any other property, if the deceased was domiciled in British India at the time of his death.

(2) The Board make rules prescribing the manner in which the nature and the locality of different classes of assets shall be determined for the purposes of this section.

20. Property held by the deceased as trustee.—Property passing on the death of the deceased shall not be deemed to include property held by the deceased as trustee for another person under a disposition not made by the deceased or under a disposition made by the deceased more than three years before his death where possession and enjoyment of the property was bona fide assumed by the beneficiary immediately upon the creation of the trust and thenceforward retained to the entire exclusion of the deceased or of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise:

Provided that the property shall not be deemed to pass by reason only that it was not, as from the date of the disposition, exclusively retained as aforesaid if by means of the surrender of the benefit reserved or otherwise it is subsequently enjoyed to the entire exclusion of the donor or of any benefit to him for at least three years before the death.

21. Interest failing before becoming an interest in possession.—In the case of settled property where the interest of any person under the settlement fails or determines by reason of his death before it becomes an interest in possession, and one or more subsequent limitations under the settlement continue to subsist, the property shall not be deemed to pass on his death by reason only of the failure or determination of that interest.

Explanation.—Where property is settled by a person on himself for life and after his death on any other person, with an ultimate reversion of an absolute interest or absolute power of disposition to the settlor, the property shall not be deemed to pass to the settlor on the death of such other person by reason only that the settlor being then in possession of the property as tenant for life becomes, in consequence of such death, entitled to the immediate reversion or acquires an absolute power to dispose of the whole property.

22. Property reverting to disponer.—(1) Where by a disposition of any property and interest is conferred on any person, other than the disponer, for the life of such person or determinable on his death and such person enters into possession of the interest, and thenceforward retains possesion of it to the entire exclusion of the disponer or of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise, and the only benefit which the disponer retains in the property is subject to such life or determinable interest and no other interest, even contingent, is created by the disposition, then, on the death of such person, the property shall not be deemed to pass by reason only of its reverter to the disponer in his life time.

(2) Where by a disposition of any property and such interest as is mentioned in sub-section (1) is conferred on two or more persons either severally or jointly or in succession, sub-section (1) shall apply in like manner as where the interest is conferred on one person:

Provided that sub-section (1) shall not apply where such person or persons taking the said life or determinable interest had at any time prior to the disposition been himself or themselves competent to dispose of the said property.

23. Income of settled property acquired on death of spouse.—Where a husband or wife is entitled, either solely or jointly with the other, to the income of any property settled by the other under a disposition which took effect before [the commencement of this Act] and on his or her death the survivor becomes entitled to the income of the property (as distinguished from the property itself) settled by such survivor, estate duty shall not be payable in respect of that property until the death of that survivor.

24. Property passing by reason of a bona fide purchase for full or partial consideration in money.—(1) Subject to the provisions of sections 25 and 42 estate duty shall not be payable in respect of property passing on the death of the deceased by reason only of a bona fide purchase from the person under whose disposition the property passes, nor in respect of the falling into possession of the reversion on any lease for lives, nor in respect of the determination of any annuity for lives, where such purchase was made, or such lease or annuity granted, for full consideration in money or money's worth paid to the vendor or grantor for his own use or benefit, or in the case of a lease for the use or benefit of any person for whom the grantor was a trustee.

(2) Where any such purchase was made, or lease or annuity granted, for partial consideration in money or money's worth paid to the vendor or grantor for his own use or benefit, or in the case of a lease for the use or benefit of any person for whom the grantor was a trustee, the value of the consideration shall be allowed as a deduction from the value of the property for the purpose of estate duty.

25. Dispositions in favour of relatives.—(1) Where a person dying after the commencement of this Act has made a disposition of property in favour of a relative of his, the creation or disposition in favour of the deceased of an annuity or other interest limited to cease on the death of the deceased or of any other person shall not be treated for the purposes of section 24 or section 40 as consideration for the disposition made by the deceased.

(2) If the deceased has made in favour of a controlled company a disposition which, if it had been made in favour of a relative of his, would have fallen within sub-section (1), this section shall have effect in like manner as if the disposition had been made in favour of a relative of his, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the Board that no relative of the deceased was, at the time of the disposition or subsequently during the life of the deceased, a member of the company.

For the purposes of this sub-section a person who is, or is deemed by virtue of this provision to be, a member of a controlled company which is a member of another such company shall be deemed to be a member of that other company.

(3) Where there have been associated operations effected with reference to the receiving by the deceased of any payment in respect of such an annuity or other interest as is mentioned in sub-section (1), or effected with a view to enabling him to receive or to facilitating the receipt by him of any such payment, this section shall have effect in relation to each of those associated operations as it has effect in relation to the creation or disposition in favour of the deceased of such an annuity or other interest.

(4) In this section—

(i) "Relatative" means, in relation to the deceased—

(a) the wife or husband of the deceased;

(b) the father, mother, children, uncles and aunts, of the deceased; and

(c) any issue of any person falling within either of the preceding paragraphs and the other party to a marriage with any such person or issue.

(ii) Reference to "children" and "issue" include reference to illegitimate children and to adopted children.

(iii) "Annuity" includes any series of payments, whether interconnected or not, whether of the same or of varying amounts, and whether payable at regular intervals or otherwise, and payments of dividends or interest on shares in or debentures of a company shall be treated for the purposes of this section as a series of payments constituting an annuity limited to cease on a death if the payments are liable to cease on the death, or the amounts thereof are liable to be reduced on the death, by reason directly or indirectly of the extinguishment or any alteration of rights attaching to, or of the issue of, any shares in or debentures of a company.

(iv) "Associated operations" means any two or more operations of any kind being,—

(a) operations which affect the same property, or one of which affects some property and the other or others of which affect property which represents, whether directly or indirectly, that property, or income arising from that property, or any property representing accumulations of any such income; or

(b) any two operations of which one is effected with reference to the other, or with a view to enabling it to be effected or to facilitating its being effected, and any third operation having a like relation to either of those two, and any fourth operation having a like relation to any of those three, and so on;

whether those operations are effected by the same person or by different persons, whether they are connected otherwise than as aforesaid or not, and whether they are contemporaneous or any of them precedes or follows any other.

26. Effect of new or increased rates of duty on certain prior sales and mortgages.—Where an interest in expectancy in any property has, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, been bona fide sold or mortgaged for full consideration in money or money's worth, and the rates of estate duty in force in the case of a person dying when the interest falls into possession are higher than the rates in force, if any, in the case of a person dying at the time of the sale or mortgage, then—

(a) no other duty on that property shall be payable by the purchaser or mortgagee when the interest falls into possession than the duty, if any, which would have been payable if the rates of estate duty applicable had been the rates in force, if any, in the case of a person dying at the time of the sale or mortgage, and

(b) in the case of a mortgage, any higher duty payable by the mortgagor shall rank as a charge subsequent to that of the mortgagee.

27. Settled property in respect of which, since the date of the settlement estate duty has been paid on the death of the deceased's spouse.—If estate duty has already been paid in respect of any settled property since the date of the settlement, on the death of one of the parties to a marriage, the estate duty shall not be payable in respect thereof on the death of the other party to the marriage, unless the latter was at the time of his death, or had been at any time during the continuance of the settlement, competent to dispose of such property, and, if on his death subsequent limitations under the settlement take effect in respect of such property, was sui juris at the time of his death, or had been sui juris at any time while so competent to dispose of the property.

28. Reduction of estate duty in the case of double taxation.—Where any property is liable to estate duty under this Act and also, by reason of the same death, to a corresponding duty under the law of any reciprocating territory to which this section applies, the former duty shall be reduced in the following manner, namely:—

The property shall in the first instance be assumed to be liable only to the higher of the two duties, this higher duty shall then be divided between British India and the reciprocating territory in proportion to the unreduced duties leviable in each; and the British Indian share resulting from such division shall be deemed to be the duty due in respect of that property under this Act.

Explanation.—"Reciprocating territory to which this section applies" means any part of His Majesty's dominions which the Central Government may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette declare to be a reciprocating territory for the purposes of this section.

29. Allowance for quick succession to land or a business.—Where the Board is satisfied that estate duty has become payable on any property consisting of land (not being agricultural land) or on a business (not being a business carried on by a company) or any interest in such land or business passing upon the death of any person, and that subsequently within five years estate duty has again become payable on the same property or any part thereof passing on the death of the person to whom the property passed on the first death, the amount of estate duty payable on the second death in respect of the property so passing shall be reduced as follows:—

Where the second death occurs within one year of the first death, by 50 per cent.;

Where the second death occurs within two years of the first death, by 40 per cent.;

Where the second death occurs within three years of the first death, by 30 per cent.;

Where the second death occurs within four years of the first death, by 20 per cent.;

Where the second death occurs within five years of the first death, by 10 per cent.:

Provided that where the value on which the duty is payable of the property on the second death exceeds the value on which the duty was payable of the property on the first death, the latter value shall be substituted for the former for the purpose of calculating the amount of duty on which the reduction under this section is to be calculated.

30. Exemptions, reductions, and other modifications.—The Central Government may by notification in the official Gazette make any exemption, reduction in rate or other modification in respect of estate duty in favour of any class of property or the whole or any part of the property of any class of persons.

PART IV.—AGGREGATION OF PROPERTY AND RATES OF DUTY.

31. Aggregation.—(1) For determining the rate of estate duty to be paid on any property passing on the death of the deceased, all property so passing in respect of which estate duty is leviable shall be aggregated so as to form one estate and the duty shall be levied at the proper graduated rate on the principal value thereof:

Provided that any property so passing, in which the deceased never had an interest, not being a debt or right or benefit that is treated as property by virtue of the Explanations to clause 13 of section 2, shall not be aggregated with any other property, but shall be an estate by itself and the estate duty shall be leviable at the proper graduated rate on the principal value thereof.

(2) Every estate shall include all income accrued upon the property included therein down to and outstanding at the date of the death of the deceased.

(3) Property passing on any death shall not be aggregated more than once, nor shall estate duty in respect thereof be levied more than once on the same death.

32. New rates of duty to be according to Central Act.—The rates of estate duty shall be according to such scale as may be fixed by an Act of the Central Legislature:

Provided—

(a) that no such duty shall be levied upon estates whose principal value does not exceed Rs. 1 lakh; and

(b) that by way of marginal adjustment, the amount of estate duty payable on an estate at the rate applicable thereto under the scale of rates of duty shall, where necessary, be reduced so as not to exceed the highest amount of duty which would be payable at the next lower rate, with the addition of the amount by which the value of the estate exceeds the value on which the highest amount of duty would be so payable at the lower rate.

PART V.—VALUE CHARGEABLE.

33. Principal value how to be estimated.—(1) The principal value of any property shall be estimated to be the price which, in the opinion of the Board, it would fetch if sold in the open market at the time of the deceased's death.

(2) In estimating the principal value under this section the Board shall fix the price of the property according to the market price at the time of the deceased's death and shall not make any reduction in the estimate on account of the estimate being made on the assumption that the whole property is to be placed on the market at one and the same time:

Provided that where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Board that the value of the property has ben depreciated by reason of the death of the deceased, the depreciation shall be taken into account in fixing the price.

34. Valuation of shares in a private company where alienation is restricted.—Where the Articles of Association of a private company contain restrictive provisions as to the alienation of shares, the value of the shares, if not ascertainable by reference to the value of the total assets of the company, shall be estimated to be what they would fetch if they could be sold in the open market on the terms of the purchaser being entitled to be registered as holder subject to the Articles, but the fact that a special buyer would for his own special reasons give a higher price than the price in the open market shall be disregarded.

35. Valuation of interests in expectancy.—Where an estate includes an interest in expectancy, estate duty in respect of that interest shall be paid, at the option of the person accountable for the duty, either with the duty in respect of the rest of the estate or when the interest falls into possession, and if the duty is not paid with the estate duty in respect of the rest of the estate, then—

(a) for the purpose of determining the rate of estate duty in respect of the rest of the estate the value of the interest shall be its value at the date of the death of the deceased; and

(b) the rate of estate duty in respect of the interest when it falls into possession shall be calculated according to its value when it falls into possession, together with the value of the rest of the estate as previously ascertained.

36. Valuation of benefits from interests ceasing on death.—The value of the benefit accruing or arising from the cesser of an interest ceasing on the death of the deceased shall—

(a) if the interest extended to the whole income of the property, be the principal value of that property; and

(b) if the interest extended to less than the whole income of the property, be the principal value of an addition to the property equal to the income to which the interest extended.

37. Valuation to be made by the Board.—Subject to the provisions of this Act the value of any property for the purpose of estate duty shall be ascertained by the Board in such manner and by such means as it thinks fit and if it authorises a person to inspect any property and to report the value thereof for the purpose of this Act, he may enter upon the property and inspect it at such reasonable times as the Board considers necessary.

38. Costs of valuation.—Where the Board requires any person to report on the value of any property for the purposes of this Act, the reasonable costs of such valuation shall be defrayed by the Board.

39. Board may accept and certify valuation when convenient.—The Board on application, from a person accountable for the duty on any property forming part of an estate shall, where the Board considers that it can conveniently be done, certify the amount of the valuation accepted by the Board for any class or description of property forming part of such estate.

PART VI.—DEDUCTIONS.

40. Reasonable funeral expenses and, with some exceptions, debts and incumbrances must be allowed for in determining chargeable value of estate. Exceptions.—In determining the value of an estate for the purpose of estate duty, allowance shall be made for reasonable funeral expenses and for debts and incumbrances; but an allowance shall not be made—

(a) for debts incurred by the deceased, or incumbrances created by a disposition made by the deceased, unless, subject to the provisions of section 25, such debts or incumbrances were incurred or created bona fide for full consideration in money or money's worth wholly for the deceased's own use and benefit and take effect out of his interest, nor,

(b) for any debt in respect whereof there is a right to reimbursement from any other estate or person, unless such reimbursement cannot be obtained, nor,

(c) more than once for the same debt or incumbrances charged upon different portions of the estate; and any debt or incumbarnce for which an allowance is made shall be deducted from the value of the property liable thereto.

41. Further exceptions.—Where a debt or incumbrance has been incurred or created in whole or in part for the purpose of or in consideration for the purchase or acquisition or extinction, whether by operation of law or otherwise, of any interest in expectancy in any property passing or deemed to pass on the death of the deceased and any person whose interest in expectancy is so purchased, acquired, or extinguished becomes (under any disposition made by or through devolution of law from, or under the intestacy of, the deceased) entitled to any interest in that property, then in determining the value of the estate of the deceased for the purpose of estate duty no allowance be made in respect of such debt or incumbrance, and any property charged with any such debt or incumbrance shall be deemed to pass freed from that debt or incumbrance:—

Provided that—

(a) if part only of such debt or incumbrance was incurred or created for such purpose or as such consideration as aforesaid, this provision shall apply to that part of such debt or incumbrance only; and

(b) if a person whose interest in expectancy in the property so purchased, acquired or extinguished becomes entitled to an interest in part only of that property, this provision shall apply only to such part of the debt or incumbrance as bears the same proportion to the whole debt or incumbrance as the value of the part of the property to an interest in which he becomes entitled bears to the value of the whole of that property.

42. Further exceptions.—(1) Any allowance which, but for this provision, would be made under section 40 for a debt incurred by the deceased as mentioned in clause (a) of that section, or for an incumbrance created by a disposition made by the deceased as therein mentioned, shall be subject to abatement to an extent proportionate to the value of any of the consideration given therefor which consisted of—

(a) property derived from the deceased; or

(b) consideration not being such property as aforesaid, but given by any person who was at any time entitled to, or amongst whose resources there was at any time included, any property derived from the deceased:

Provided that, if where the whole or a part of the consideration given consisted of sucu consideration as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of this sub-section it is proved to the satisfaction of the Board that the value of the consideration given, or of that part thereof, as the case may be, exceeded that which could have been renderd available by application of all the property derived from the deceased, other than such (if any) of that property as is included in the consideration given or as to which the like facts are proved in relation to the giving of the consideration as are mentioned in the proviso to sub-section (1) of section 15 in relation to the purchase or provision of an annuity or other interest, no abatement shall be made in respect of the excess.

(2) Money or money's worth paid or applied by the deceased in or towards satisfaction or discharge of a debt or incumbrance in the case of which sub-section (1) of this section would have had effect on his death if the debt or incumbrance had not been satisfied or discharged, or in reduction of a debt or incumbrance in the case of which that sub-section has effect on his death, shall, unless so paid or applied three years before the death, be treated as property deemed to be included in the property passing on the death and estate duty shall, notwithstanding anything in section 24, be payable in respect thereof accordingly.

(3) The provisions of sub-section (2) of section 15 shall have effect for the purpose of this section as they have effect for the purpose of that section.

43. Debts to persons resident out of British India not to be deducted in first instance except from duty-paid property outside British India.—An allowance shall not be made in the first instance for debts due from the deceased to persons resident out of British India (unless contracted to be paid in British India or charged on properties situate within British India), except out of the value of any property of the deceased situate out of British India in respect of which estate duty is paid; and there shall be no repayment of estate duty in respect of any such debts, except to the extent to which it is shown to the satisfaction of the Board that the property of the deceased situate in the foreign country in which the person to whom such debts are due resides is insufficient for their payment.

44. Cost of realising or administering foreign property may be allowed for within certain limits.—Where the Board is satisfied that any additional expense in administering or in realising property has been incurred by reason of the property being situate out of British India, the Board may make an allowance from the value of the property on account of such expense not exceeding in any case 5 per cent. on the value of the property.

45. Duty paid in foreign territory on foreign property to be allowed for.—Where any property passing on the death of the deceased is situate in a territory outside British India and the Board is satisfied that by reason of such death any duty is payable in that territory in respect of that property, the Board shall make an allowance of the amount of that duty from the value of the property.

PART VII.—COLLECTION OF THE DUTY.

46. Duty may be collected by stamps or otherwise.—Estate duty may be collected by stamps or such other means as the Board may prescribe.

47. Payment of duty may be accepted in prescribed Government securities.—The Board may prescribe that Government securities shall be accepted in payment of estate duty on such terms as it thinks fit.

48. Persons accountable, and their duties and liabilities.—(1) Where any property passes on the death of the deceased, every person to whom such property so passes for any beneficial interest in possession, and also, to the extent of the property actually received or disposed of by him, every executor, trustee, guardian, committee or other person in whom any interest in the property so passing or the management thereof is at any time vested, and every person in whom the same is vested in possession by alienation or other derivative title shall be accountable for the whole of the estate duty on the property passing on the death:

Provided that nothing in this section shall render a person accountable for duty who acts merely as agent or bailiff for another person in the management of property.

(2) Nothing in this section shall render liable to or accountable for duty a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration without notice.

(3) Every person accountable for estate duty under the provisions of this section shall, within six months of the death of the deceased or such later time as the Board may allow, deliver to the Board and verify to the best of his knowledge and belief, an account of all the property in respect of which estate duty is payable.

(4) Where the person accountable knows of any property which he has not included in his account because he does not know its amount or value, he may state that such property exists, but he does not know the amount or value thereof and that he undertakes, as soon as the amount and value are ascertained to bring a supplementary account thereof and to pay both the duty for which he may be liable in respect of such property and any further duty payable by reason thereof for which he may be liable in respect of the property mentioned in the original account.

(5) Where two or more persons are accountable, either in the same capacity or in different capacities, for estate duty in respect of the same property, their liability is concurrent.

49. Every person believed to be in possession to deliver statement of particulars of property as required by Board.—Every person accountable for estate duty, every company to which, in the opinion of the Board, a transfer of property has been made by the deceased as mentioned in section 16, every person who is or was at any time an officer or auditor of such a company, and every person whom the Board believes to have taken possession of or administered any part of the estate in respect of which duty is leviable on the death of the deceased, or of the income of any part of such estate shall, if required by the Board, deliver to the Board and verify, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a statement of such particulars together with such evidence as the Board may require relating to any property which it has reason to believe to form part of an estate in respect of which estate duty is leviable on the death of the deceased.

50. Penalty for wilful default.—A person who wilfully fails to comply with any of the provisions of section 48 or 49 shall be liable to pay a penalty of Rs. 1,000 or a sum equal to double the amount of the estate duty, if any, remaining unpaid for which he is accountable, according as the Board may elect:

Provided that the Board shall have power to reduce the penalty in any particular case.

51. Executor to specify all chargeable property with affidavit of valuation.—In all cases in which a grant of representation is applied for within six months of the death of the deceased—

(a) the executor of the deceased shall, to the best of his knowledge and belief, specify in an appropriate account annexed to the affidavit of valuation filed in Court under section 191 of the Court-fees Act, 1870 (VII of 1870), all the property in respect of which estate duty is payable upon the death of the deceased and shall deliver a copy of the affidavit with the account to the Board, and

(b) no order entitling the applicant to the grant of representation shall be made upon his application until he has delivered the account prescribed in sub-section (1) and has produced a certificate from the Board under section 53 or 56 that the estate duty payable in respect of the property included in the account has been or will be paid, or that none is due, as the case may be.

52. Estate duty when due and how and when to be collected.—Estate duty shall be due from the date of the death of the deceased and shall be collected upon the account delivered under sub-section 4 of section 48 or clause (a) of section 51 or prepared under sub-section 3 of section 54, and amended or modified where necessary as provided in sub-section (1) or sub-section (5) of section 54; and interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum shall be paid on the duty from the date of the death up to the date of the delivery of the account or the expiration of six months after the death, whichever happens first.

53. Duty to be paid or security for payment furnished for delivery of account and certificate to be granted thereupon.—Upon delivery of the account under sub-section (4) of section 48 or clause (a) of section 51, the person delivering it shall pay to the Board, or furnish security to the satisfaction of the Board for the payment of, the estate duty, if any, payable in respect of the property included in the account, and the Board shall thereupon grant him a certificate that such duty has been or will be paid, or that none is due, as the case may be.

54. Board's powers in respect of valuations.—(1) If the Board is of opinion that the person delivering the account has under-estimated the value of the property in respect of which estate duty is payable (whether by placing too low a value on the property included in the account or by omitting to include therein property that ought to have been included), the Board may inquire into the matter in such manner and by such means as it thinks fit and, if still of opinion that the value of the property has been under-estimated, may require him to amend the valuation.

(2) If such person does not amend the valuation to the satisfaction of the Board, the Board may move the High Court to hold an inquiry into the true value of the property:

Provided that no such motion shall be made after the expiration of one year from the date of delivery of the account under sub-section (4) of section 48 or clause (a) of section 51.

(3) In any case where no account has been delivered as required by sub-section (4) of section 48 or clause (a) of section 51, the Board may cause an account of the property passing upon the death of the deceased to be prepared in such manner and by such means as it thinks fit and may call upon any person who in its opinion is accountable for the payment of the estate duty in respect of the property to accept such account.

(4) If such person disputes his accountability or the correctness of the account, the Board may move the High Court to hold an inquiry into the matter.

(5) The High Court when moved under sub-section (2) or sub-section (4) shall hold or cause to be held an inquiry accordingly and shall record a finding on the matters in issue. The Board shall be deemed to be a party to the inquiry.

(6) Any person authorized by the High Court to hold the inquiry may take such evidence on oath as he considers necessary and shall submit to the Court a report of the result of the inquiry together with the evidence taken by him and such report and the evidence so taken shall be evidence in the proceeding.

(7) The Central Government shall, within twelve months after the commencement of this Act and may thereafter from time to time, appoint a sufficient number of qualified persons to act as valuers for the purpose of this Act and shall fix a scale of charges for the remuneration of such persons and the High Court may refer any question of disputed value under this section to the arbitration of any person so appointed, and the costs of any such arbitration shall be part of the costs in the case.

(8) An appeal shall lie to His Majesty in Council from any judgment of the High Court delivered on a motion made under this section in any case which the High Court certifies to be a fit case for appeal to His Majesty in Council.

Explanation.—"High Court" in this section means the High Court to which, or to a Court subordinate to which, an application for a grant of representation has been made, or were no such application has been made, the High Court which would have jurisdiction to entertain such an application.

55. Grant of representation not to be delayed by Board's motion.—Where any grant for representation has been applied for, it shall not be delayed by reason of any motion made by the Board under section 54.

56. Certificate of payment of duty, and penalty for non-payment.—(1) Where the valuation is amended by the person accountable upon the Board's requisition under sub-section (1) of section 54, or is enhanced by the High Court upon the Board's motion under sub-section (2) of section 54, and in any case where the original valuation has been discovered to be too low, such person shall within one month of the amendment or enhancement or discovery pay the deficit duty which is payable in respect of the property upon the amended or enhanced or full valuation and the Board shall thereupon grant him a certificate accordingly.

(2) Where the valuation is reduced by the High Court on the Board's motion under sub-section (2) of section 54, the Board shall refund to the person accountable any excess duty paid by him and shall grant to him a certificate that the full duty payable in respect of the property has been paid.

(3) In any case where no account has been delivered as required by sub-section (4) of section 48 or clause (a) of section 51, the person who is called upon to accept the account prepared by the Board under sub-section (3) of section 54 shall, within one month of his acceptance or, as the case may be, of the final disposal of the motion made under sub-section (4) of section 54, pay the full duty payable in respect of the property and the Board shall thereupon grant him a certificate accordingly.

(4) If the person accountable does not pay the amount of duty due from him under sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) within the period specified therein, he shall be liable to a penalty of Rs. 1,000 or a sum equal to five times the amount due according as the Board may elect.

(5) Where a person accountable for the estate duty in respect of any property passing on a death applies to the Board at any time and delivers and verifies a full statement to the best of his knowledge and belief of all property passing on such death and the several persons entitled thereto, the Board may determine the estate duty payable in respect of the property and on payment of that duty, the Board shall give him a certificate accordingly.

57 Commutation of duty in respect of interests in expectancy.—The Board in its discretion may, upon application by a person entitled to an interest in expectancy, commute the estate duty which would or might, but for the commutation, become payable in respect of such interest for a certain sum to be presently paid, and, for determining that sum, shall cause a present value to be set upon such duty, regard being had to the contingencies affecting the liability to and rate and amount of such duty, and interest being reckoned at 3 per cent.; and on the receipt of such sum the Board shall give a certificate accordingly.

58. Assessment in complicated cases.—Where by reason of the number of deaths upon which property has passed or of the complicated nature of the interests of different persons in property which has passed on death or from any other cause, it is difficult to ascertain exactly the amount of estate duty payable in respect of any property or any interest therein or so to ascertain the same without undue expense in proportion to the value of the property or interest, the Board on the application of any person accountable for the duty and upon his giving to the Board all the information in his power respecting the amount of the property and the several interests therein and other circumstances of the case, may by way of composition for all or any of the duties payable in respect of the property or interest and the various interests therein or any of them, assess such sum on the value of the property or interest, as having regard to the circumstances appears proper, and may accept payment of the sum so assessed in full payment of all claims for estate duty in respect of such property or interest, and shall give a certificate accordingly.

59. Board may allow postponement of payment on terms.—Where the Board is satisfied that the estate duty leviable in respect of any property cannot, without excessive sacrifice, be raised at once, it may allow payment to be postponed for such period, to such extent, and on payment of such interest not exceeding 4 per cent. or any higher interest yielded by the property and on such other terms as it may think fit.

60. Board may remit duty and interest outstanding after twenty years from death.—If after the expiration of twenty years from a death upon which estate duty became leviable any such duty remains unpaid, the Board may, if it thinks fit, on the application of any person accountable or liable for such duty or interested in the property, remit the payment of such duty or any part thereof or any interest thereon.

61. Forms.—All affidavits, accounts, certificates, statements and forms used for the purposes of this Part of this Act shall be in such form and contain such particulars as may be prescribed by the Board and, if so required by the Board, shall be in duplicate and accounts and statements shall be delivered and verified on oath and by production of books and documents in the manner prescribed by the Board and any person who wilfully fails to comply with the provisions of this section shall be liable to the penalty mentioned in section 50.

62. Recovery of duty and penalties.—Any estate duty or deficit duty and any interest or penalty payable under this Act may, on the certificate of the Board, be recovered from the person liable thereto as if it were an arrear of land-revenue by any Collector in any part of British India.

PART VIII.—CHARGE OF ESTATE DUTY ON PROPERTY AND FACILITIES FOR RAISING IT.

63. Estate duty a Crown debt and a first charge on property liable thereto.—Estate duty is a Crown debt and, subject to the provisions of section 18, shall be a first charge on the property in respect of which it is leviable after the debts and incumbrances allowable under Part VI of this Act.

64. Private transfers of property void against claim of estate duty.—From and after the death of the deceased, any private transfer or delivery of any property passing upon the death by any person to whom it so passes shall be void against any claim in respect of estate duty enforceable under this Act.

65. Discharge from estate duty in certain cases.—A certificate granted by the Board under section 56 or section 58 shall discharge the property included therein and the grantee so far as regards that property from any further claim for estate duty, but shall not discharge any person or property from estate duty in case of fraud or failure to disclose material facts and shall not affect the duty payable in respect of any property afterwards shown to have passed on the death nor any further duty payable by reason thereof in respect of the property included in the certificate:

Provided nevertheless that a certificate purporting to be a discharge of the whole estate duty payable in respect of any property included in the certificate shall exonerate a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration without notice from, the duty notwithstanding any such fraud or failure.

66. Person accountable to be repaid by trustees and owners in certain cases.—If a person accountable under section 48 pays any part of the estate duty in respect of any property not passing to him, it shall, where occasion requires, be repaid to him by the trustees or owners of the property.

67. Facilities for paying duty or raising amount already paid.—(1) A person authorized or required to pay estate duty in respect of any property shall, for the purposes of paying the duty, or raising the amount of the duty when already paid, have power, whether the property is or is not vested in him, to raise the amount of such duty and any interest and expenses properly paid or incurred by him in respect thereof, by the sale or mortgage of or a terminable charge on that property or any part thereof.

(2) A person having an interest in any property who pays the estate duty in respect of the property, shall be entitled to the like charge, as if the estate duty in respect of that property had been raised by means of a mortgage to him.

(3) Any money arising from the sale of property comprised in a settlement or held upon trust to lay out upon the trusts of a settlement may be expanded in paying any estate duty in respect of property comprised in the settlement and held upon the same trusts.

PART IX.—MISCELLANEOUS.

68. Jurisdiction of Courts barred save as expressly provided.—Save as provided in this Act, nothing done or in good faith purporting to be done by the Board under this Act shall be called in question in any Court.

69. Discharge of functions of Board by officers and authorities empowered by the Central Government.—(1) The Central Government may by notification in the official Gazette empower any officer or authority to discharge the functions of the Board under this Act or the rules made under this Act in respect of any specified matter.

(2) Where under this Act or the rules made under this Act the opinion, belief or state of mind of the Board is relevant in any matter, the opinion, belief, or state of mind of the officer or authority empowered in respect of such matter under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be that of the Board.

70. Rule-making powers of the Board.—Subject to the condition of previous publication, the Board may make rules not inconsistent with this Act, prescribing all matters which by this Act, are required or permitted to be prescribed, or which are necessary or convenient to be prescribed for carrying out the purposes of or giving effect to this.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of the Bill is to impose an estate duty on non-agricultural property to assist the Provinces in their post-war development by fortifying permanently their revenues and enabling them to improve inter alia the existing social services. In spite of war-time taxation, enormous private fortunes have been made during the war, aggravating the great inequality which already existed. Apart from providing funds for the expansion of social services there is manifest justification for the measure, which will be a first step in the process of reducing the great disparities of wealth, which is a prominent feature of Indian economy, and thereby moving towards a more equitable distribution of the national income.

2. Death duties in one form or another constitute an important element in the scheme of taxation of most progressive countries. In 1924-25, the Taxation Enquiry Committee considered the question of introducing them in this country and recommended the imposition of an estate duty by Central legislation. Before, however the recommendation could be acted upon, the entire Indian Constitution came under review, beginning with the appointment of the Statutory Commission in 1928, and ending with the passing of the Government of India Act, 1935. Under this Act, legislation on duties of succession in respect of property other than agricultural land falls in the Federal list and similar legislation in respect of agricultural land in the Provincial list. There is however a distinction between a succession duty strictly so called and an estate duty. The estate duty is levied because property has passed by death and the duty is graduated with reference to the total amount of property so passing. The succession duty, on the other hand, looks not to the size of the estate left by the deceased, but to the size of the separate shares received by the beneficiaries, and as the windfall element increases with the distance of relationship to the deceased it is often graduated further on that principle. The question therefore arose whether an estate duty of the kind levied in the United Kingdom and recommended for adoption in India by the Taxation Enquiry Committee was within the competence of the legislatures, Central or Provincial, under the new Constitution. A reference was made to the Federal Court, who, by a majority, expressed the opinion that such a duty did not fall within any of the legislative lists. Parliamentary legislation was accordingly undertaken and as the result of a recent statute an estate duty in respect of property other than agricultural land can now be levied by the Central Legislature, the proceeds being distributable to the provinces according to principles to be formulated by a Central Act. The Provincial Legislatures can levy a similar duty in respect of agricultural land.

3. The draft Bill largely follows the lines of the Estate Duty Acts of the United Kingdom so far as the charging clauses are concerned. The Estate Duty will be charged according to the principal value of all property which passes on the death of any person, whether by the disposition of the deceased, or by a settlement made by others. The governing principle is that the title of the State to a share in the accumulated property of the deceased is an anterior title to that of the interest to be taken by those who are to share it.

So far as the machinery of assessment is concerned, the Bill is an adaptation of the provisions of the Court-fees Act, 1870, dealing with probate duties levied in the shape of court-fees.

4. There are two matters which have been left out of the present Bill, namely, the distribution of the proceeds of the proposed duty amongst the Provinces and the rates of duty to be levied. The intention is to distribute the proceeds of the duty (after deduction of the cost of collection) amongst the Provinces in furtherance of their post-war reconstruction plans. The exact basis of distribution is a question which will have to be considered in consultation with the Provinces concerned. When a decision is reached, the result will be embodied in a separate Central Act. The rates at which the duty is to be levied will also be fixed from time to time by separate legislation. It is not possible to estimate even approximately the probable yield of the new duty as much will depend upon the rates in force for the time being.

Notes on Clauses.

References to Finance Acts, the Succession Duty Act and the Law of Property Act are to the United Kingdom Acts of those names.

In the drafting of the Bill, including the interpretation clauses, clauses 2 and 3, the United Kingdom Acts on the subject have been followed as closely as possible so that the assistance of the United Kingdom decisions may be available.

Clause 2.—Sub-clauses (1), (2), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (10), (13), (14), (15) and (16) are derived from section 22 of the Finance Act, 1894. The Explanation to sub-clause (13) is derived from section 45 of the Finance Act, 1940.

Sub-clause (3).—From section 59, Finance Act, 1940.

Sub-clause (4).—It is contemplated that the rules made by the Board under section 16(4) of this Act will correspond with the definition contained in section 58 of the Finance Act, 1940.

Sub-clause (11).—From section 69, Indian Succession Act, 1925.

Clause 3.—Clauses (a), (c) and (d) of subcluse (1) are adapted from section 22(2) of the Finance Act, 1894. Clause (b) is new.

Sub-clause (2) is inserted to remove the possibility of doubt as to the scope of the provisions contained in Parts II and III of the Bill.

Clause 4.—From section 1, Finance Act, 1894.

See in this connection the definition of "Passing on the death" in clause 2(14). The "passing" may be immediately on the death, as where A settles a fund upon himself for life, and then upon B absolutely. Or it may be after an interval or at any period ascertainable only by reference to death, as where there is a trust for accumulation for a term after A's death. The passing may be certain as in the first example above. Or it may be contingent, as where A settles a fund upon himself for life, and then upon B, if and when he attains the age of 21 with accumulations. The passing may be original as in the first example above; or it may be by way of substitutive limitation, as where property is limited to A for life, remainder to B if living at A's death and in default (which happens) to C. In all these cases estate duty is chargeable on A's death.

Illustration.—A bequeaths a fund to B for life and on his death to C. Here C has an interest in the fund expectant on the death of B, and if he dies before B, this "interest in expectancy"—which is "property" by virtue of the definition in section 2(13) above—passes upon C's death as part of his estate. Estate duty is accordingly payable under this section. But the duty may be paid either at C's death or on the death of B when the estate falls into possession (see section 86). If the duty is paid at C's death, regard must be had to the fact that the interest passing is only an interest in expectancy and an abatement or allowance must be made in respect of B's life interest, reckoning his expectation of life according to the accepted tables of mortality.

If, however, it is decided to postpone payment until B's death, when the reversion falls in, its value as a reversion calculated as above must still be added to or aggregated with the rest of C's estate in order to determine the correct duty on the latter, and when the fund falls into possession by the death of B, duty has to be paid on its value at that date, the rate being ascertained by aggregation of such value with the value, at C's death, of the rest of his estate [re Eyre (1907) K. B. 331].

Clause 5.—From section 2(1) (a), Finance Act, 1894.

Illustrations.—1. Property comprised in a revocable gift is clearly property of which the donor is competent to dispose. Hence estate duty is payable on the property on the donor's death, although the gift may not have been actually revoked. Similarly property comprised in a settlement where the settler reserves an unqualified power to revoke the trusts and declare new ones is chargeable to duty.

2. A devises a house to his son, subject to a power for A's wife by deed or will to charge on it a sum of Rs. 1 lakh. On the wife's death, estate duty is leviable in respect of this sum as property of which she was competent to dispose and this is so whether she exercised the power or not. See section 3(4).

3. Under section 109 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, a gift by will to the testator's child is preserved from lapsing where the beneficiary pre-deceases the testator provided that the beneficiary leaves issue living at the testator's death. The gift takes effect as if the beneficiary had died immediately after the testator and the property devolves under the beneficiary's will or intestacy. It is therefore property of which the beneficiary was competent to dispose and is chargeable with estate duty in connection with his death as well as in connection with the death of the testator, subject to any allowance for quick succession [re Scott (1901) 1 K. B. 228].

Clause 6.—From section 2(1) (b), Finance Act, 1894.

Illustrations.—1. A, a Hindu widow, having a Hindu woman's estate in house property, makes a gift of the property to B. The result is that B's interest ceases on A's death and a right to the entire property accrues to the reversioners. Therefore estate duty is payable on the entire property on A's death.

2. A and B are undivided members of a Hindu joint family governed by the Mitakshara school of law. Neither A nor B can dispose of his undivided interest in the joint family property by gift or will under the existing Hindu law. If therefore A dies undivided it cannot be said that his interest is "property of which the deceased was at the time of his death competent to dispose". The case thus falls outside section 5, but clearly falls within the present section, because the deceased's interest in the joint family property ceases upon his death. In this case the benefit which accrues to B, assuming that A has left no widow or children, extends to the whole of A's interest and the whole of it is chargeable to duty if it is not agricultural land.

3. A by will gives an annuity of Rs. 500 to B charged on house property worth Rs. 1,200 per annum and the house property itself, subject to the aforesaid charge, to C. On B's death an annuity ceases and estate duty is therefore chargeable on the value of the benefit arising by the cesser. Thus if the house property is worth Rs. 24,000 at B's death the value of the benefit would be $\frac{500}{1200} \times 24000 =$ Rs. 10,000. See section 39.

4. A is entitled to an annuity of Rs. 800 charged on certain house property and on A's death an annuity of Rs. 200 per annum becomes charged on the property in favour of B. In this case, upon A's death the owner of the property is chargeable to estate duty in respect of the cesser of the whole of A's annuity of Rs. 800 and not merely the cesser of Rs. 600 per annum which is the difference between the two annuities.

5. A fund is held on trust during the life of A to pay an annuity of Rs. 1,000 to B and the remaining income of Rs. 2,000 per annum to A and on A's death the whole income of Rs. 3,000 per annum is to go to B. In this case upon the death of A no estate duty is payable in respect of the cesser of B's annuity of Rs. 1,000. Under the present sub-section we have to see what was the interest of the deceased which ceased on his death and the extent of the benelt arising from the cesser of that interest. It is clear that in the case put A's interest was limited to Rs. 2,000 per annum.

Clause 7.—From section 2(1) (c), Finance Act, 1894. These gifts are dealt with in section 191 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925.

Clause 8.—From section 2(1) (c), Finance Act, 1894, and section 59, Finance Act, 1910.

Clause 9.—From section 2(1), (c), Finance Act, 1894, and section 59, Finance Act, 1910.

The right to possess under the terms of a gift is not possession; and it is payment, and not the obligation to pay, which confers enjoyment.

If the non-exclusion of or benefit to the donor extends to or overrides the whole subject-matter of the gift, the whole is chargeable with estate duty. But where the gift comprises separate parcels of property and an interest is reserved to the donor out of one of those parcels only, that parcel alone is chargeable with the duty.

The benefit need not be reserved out of the subject matter of the gift, but may be secured only by the donee's personal covenant.

The words "contract or otherwise" must be construed in accordance with the ejusdem generis rule; they connote an enforceable arrangement, though not necessarily between the same persons as are parties to the gift. The arrangement must however be referable in some way to the gift.

Clause 10.—From section 43, Finance Act, 1940.

Illustration.—A, a Hindu widow, having a Hindu woman's estate in house property surrenders her estate to the reversioners two years before her death. The property in such a case cannot be said to pass to the reversioners on her death, since it actually passes to them two years before. Therefore section 4 does not apply. Nor does section 6 apply, because the widow had in the circumstances, no interest ceasing on her death: it had ceased two years previously. But under sub-section (1) of the present section the property is deemed to pass on her death and becomes chargeable to estate duty.

Clause 11.—From section 2(1) (c), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 12.—From section 2(1) (c), Finance Act, 1894.

In a true joint tenancy the interests of the joint tenants must be equal and identical in every respect. Any one of them can in his life time acquire full dominion over his share by severing the joint tenancy or he can dispose of it as he thinks fit in which event the joint tenancy will, so far as his share is concerned, be severed by that disposition. The unsevered share of a deceased joint tenant in the strict sense, although it accrues to the other joint tenants by survivorship, is in consequence property of which he was competent to dispose and liable to estate duty as such under section 5.

But the liability to duty may extend further, for where the deceased, having been absolutely entitled to property, has caused it to be transferred to or vested in himself and any other person jointly, the whole property is deemed to pass on the death of the deceased for the purpose of attracting estate duty. If the deceased provided the property originally, it is sufficient to attract estate duty in respect of the whole that the beneficial interest in a part shall have passed or accrued on the death. This is the strict legal position under the present section. In practice, however, certain concessions are allowed in England. If, for example, any legally admissible evidence exists to show that the intention of the transaction was to make the party true joint tenants in every respect, and it is shown that the survivor, although he provided no part of the property, was nevertheless entitled to and in fact received a severed share of income, estate duty is claimed in connection with the death of the person who provided the property only on the share in which he was beneficially interested unless he dies within three years of the transaction.

Clause 13.—From section 2(1) (c), Finance Act, 1894.

There must be an existing donee. The owner of a policy cannot so long as he remains the owner, be regarded as keeping it up for the benefit of a donee to whom he subsequently assigns it. The liability to duty is independent of the existence of any obligation upon the insured to keep up the policy or of any arrangement between him and any other person in relation thereto.

Clause 14.—From section 2(1) (d), Finance Act, 1894 and section 28, Finance Act, 1934.

The general purpose of this provision is to prevent a man from escaping estate duty by subtracting from his means, during life, money or money's worth, which, when he dies, is to reappear in the form of a beneficial interest accruing or arising on his death.

Clause 15.—From section 30, Finance Act, 1939.

The purpose of this provision is to extend liability to duty to annuities and other interests which, though not directly provided by the deceased, are in substance attributable to property derived from him.

Clause 16.—From section 42, Finance Act, 1940 and section 35, Finance Act, 1944.

Sub-clauses (1), (2) and (3).—The necessity for these provisions will be illustrated by the following example:

A is the owner of an estate (not being agricultural land) worth Rs. 12 lakhs including a residential house and of stocks and shares worth Rs. 8 lakhs. He forms a company with a nominal capital of Rs. 20 lakhs divided into 50,000 5 per cent. preference shares and 150,000 ordinary shares, all of Rs. 10 each. He sells the estate and the securities to the company in consideration for the shares, of which 50,000 ordinary shares are allotted to him and the rest to his wife and children. As part of the arrangement, he is appointed governing director for life at a salary of Rs. 50,000 per year and the residential house, whose annual value is Rs. 5,000, is let to him as governing director at a rent of Rs. 1,000 per year. On A's death more than three years later, estate duty would, but for the provisions of this section, be payable only in respect of the 50,000 shares which he retained. There was no gift to the company, for the company gave full consideration. The only gift was a gift of the shares and that gift was not the subject of any reservation. No estate duty would be payable in respect of the cesser of the salary, because A's interest therein was as holder of an office.

Sub-clause (4).—There are numerous provisions on this subject in the U. K. Finance Act, 1940 which it has been considered better here to relegate to rules. Provisions of this kind were first enacted in the United Kingdom in 1930, but they were found to be ineffective and had to be recast in 1940. A number of adjustments were again found necessary in 1944. These constant changes indicate the desirability of making the provisions flexible so as to meet new methods of evasion; hence their relegation to rules in the present Bill.

Sub-clause (5).—From section 52, Finance Act, 1940.

Clause 17.—From section 53, Finance Act, 1940.

Clause 18.—From section 54, Finance Act, 1940.

Clause 19.—From section 2(2), Finance Act, 1894 and section 24, Finance Act, 1936.

The rules of English law relating to the nature and the situs or locality of assets of an intangible nature are complicated and in some respects doubtful. For example, immovable property situate outside the United Kingdom, if it has become subject to a trust for sale under a British trust or rule of law, is deemed to be personal estate and the interest of the successor is deemed to be a British chose in action. Again, the property of which a deceased partner of a British firm dies possessed is regarded as personal and movable property, even though part of the property belonging to the firm is immovable, and the situation of the asset is primarily determined by the principal place of business of the firm. A simple contract that is deemed to be situate in the country where the debtor resides at the creditor's death. Debts due from the Crown are regarded as situate in the place where the document of title is at the time of the death of the deceased and so on. Under sub-clause (2) above the Board may adopt the English rules where they are clear and simple. Otherwise, simpler rules may be made.

Clause 20.—From section 2(3), Finance Act, 1894, and section 59, Finance Act, 1910.

Illustrations.—1. A dies leaving property of which he was a trustee for B under a will left by C. The property is not chargeable to estate duty upon A's death.

2. A dies leaving property of which he was a trustee for B under a deed of settlement made by A himself not more than three years before his death. The property is chargeable to duty, for otherwise any person could evade the duty by making such a trust shortly before his death and declaring thereby that he is a trustee for some named heir.

3. A dies leaving property of which he was a trustee for B under a deed of settlement made by A himself more than three years before his death, possession and enjoyment having been assumed by B immediately upon the creation of the trust and thenceforward retain to the entire exclusion of A. The property is not chargeable to duty upon A's death.

4. A dies leaving property of which he was a trustee for B under a deed of settlement made by A himself more than three years before his death, B having assumed possession immediately upon the creation of the trust, but being bound by an agreement to give A a share of the profits until A's death. The property is chargeable to duty upon A's death.

Clause 21.—From section 5(3), Finance Act, 1894, and section 48, Finance Act, 1938.

The Explanation is derived from section 14, Finance Act, 1896.

Ex hypothesi in the case put in the Explanation, the interest of the deceased in the settled property fails before it becomes an interest in possession and in view of the decision in A. G. v. Wood that an absolute reversion may be a limitation which continues to subsist, the Explanation is redundant, although such a provision was inserted in section 14 of the Finance Act of 1896.

Clause 22.—From section 15, Finance Act, 1896.

Illustrations.—1. A settles property on trust for B (usually a poor relation or an old servant) for life and then for himself absolutely. No duty is payable on B's death, if he dies before A.

2. A settles property on trust to pay an annuity thereout to himself and, subject thereto, for B for life, with remainder to A. Duty is payable on B's death, because it cannot be said that the only benefit retained by A is subject to the life interest.

3. A settles property on B for life with remainder to B's children absolutely and in default, for A absolutely. B dies without children. Duty is payable, for the contingent interests of B's possible children were "other interests" created by the disposition.

4. B gives property to A, who then settles it on B for life with remainder to himself. Duty is payable on B's death, for B was competent to dispose of the property prior to the settlement.

5. As in Illustration 1, but B dies after A and the property reverts to A's heirs. Duty is payable on B's death, for the property does not revert to the disponer himself.

Clause 23.—From section 21(5), Finance Act, 1894.

Illustration.—A by deed dated 1940 settled property on his wife for life, and on her death on himself for life, with remainder to their children. The wife dies after the commencement of this Act, leaving A surviving. Estate duty is not payable on her death, though it will be payable on the subsequent death of A. The exemption would not have applied if A had become entitled to the corpus on his wife's death.

Clause 24.—From section 3, Finance Act, 1894.

Illustration.—On the marriage of A and B, A the husband, partly in consideration of the marriage and partly in consideration of the transfer to him of certain shares belonging to B, settled certain house property upon himself for life and then upon B absolutely. Here the consideration is only partly in money or money's worth, namely, so far as it consists of the shares. Hence under sub-clause (2), the value of the shares, as at the date of the settlement, is to be deducted from the value of the house property, as at A's death in ascertaining the sum in respect of which B is to pay an estate duty.

Property bona fide transferred by the deceased for money or money's worth is not chargeable to estate duty. Although such a transfer might be made in anticipation of death, the consideration received in respect of it becomes the property of the deceased and as such is liable to duty. To subject to taxation both the property whose sale produces that money or money's worth and that money or money's worth itself would be in substance to impose double taxation on the same property. Hence the exemption in this clause. The exemption is to apply not only when the property is acquired for full consideration in money or money's worth, but also, to a proportionate extent, where part of the consideration is of that character.

Clause 25.—From section 44, Finance Act, 1940. The relaxations provided for in section 40, Finance Act, 1944, are covered by section 30 of this Bill.

Clause 26.—From section 17, Finance Act (No. 2), 1940.

Clause 27.—From section 5(2), Finance Act, 1894, and section 13, Finance Act, 1898.

Clause 28.—

Illustration.—A dies leaving movable property in British India, being domiciled at the time of his death in the United Kingdom. By reason of the situation of the property in British India, the unreduced estate duty on the property under this Act, is, say, Rs. 2,000. By reason of the domicile of the deceased the same property is liable to an unreduced estate duty of, say, £600 in the United Kingdom equivalent to Rs. 8,000. Assuming that the United Kindom is notified as "reciprocating territory", the reduced duty due under this Act is arrived at by dividing the higher of the two duties namely, Rs. 8,000 between British India and the United Kingdom in the proportion of 2,000: 8,000. The British Indian share thus works out to Rs. 1,600 which is accordingly the reduced duty due in respect of that property under this Act. Under the existing law in the United Kingdom, section 20 of the Finance Act, 1894, being applicable to British India, the United Kingdom duty will be reduced by Rs. 1,600 so that the reduced United Kingdom duty will be the equivalent of Rs. 6,400, i.e., £480.

Clause 29.—From section 15, Finance Act, 1914.

Clause 30.—This clause is intended to cover, amongst others, the deductions and relaxations provided for in section 51, Finance Act, 1940, and sections 38 and 40, Finance Act, 1944. The following are some of the exemptions which, if considered desirable may be allowed under this clause:—

(a) Gifts made in consideration of marriage.

(b) Gifts proved to have been part of the normal expenditure of the deceased and to have been reasonable: e.g., where a well-to-do man makes allowances to his children amounting to perhaps a fifth of his income; on his death no claim for estate duty need arise in respect of payments made within 3 years.

(c) Gifts not exceeding a certain limit, say, Rs. 1,000.

(d) Gifts to the Crown.

[These four exemptions correspond to those conferred in the United Kingdom by section 59, Finance Act, 1910.]

(e) Property given for national purposes or to a local authority or to a University. [See section 15(2), Finance Act, 1894 and section 40, Finance Act, 1931.]

(f) Government securities issued free of tax in certain circumstances. [See section 47, Finance Act (No. 2), 1915.]

(g) The property of a common seaman, marine, soldier, or airman who is killed or dies in the service of His Majesty. [See section 8(1), Finance Act, 1894.]

(h) Property not exceeding a certain limit passing to the widow or lineal descendants of members of His Majesty's Forces whether officers, non-commissioned officers, or soldiers dying from wounds received or disease contracted on active service. [See section 14, Finance Act, 1900.]

(i) Property not exceeding a certain limit passing on the death of any person proved to be due to injuries received by him during the present emergency and within twelve months before his death, being injuries caused by the operations of war. [See section 46, Finance Act, 1941.]

[In view of the exemption in proviso (a) to clause 32, no further special exemption under (g), (h), or (i) above may be necessary.]

(j) Pensions or annuities payable by the Government of India to the widow or child of any deceased officer of that Government . [See section 15(3), Finance Act, 1894.]

(k) Property which has paid "probate duty" in court-fees under the Court-fees Act, 1870, to the extent of such payment.

(l) Property which has paid "succession duty", to the extent of such payment. [See, for example, the Bijni Succession Act, 1931 (Assam Act II of 1931), under which the Bijni Raj has to pay a fee at every succession.]

(m) Property of the Rulers of Indian States.

(n) Interest in ancestral property passing on the death of a minor coparcener in a Mitakshara joint family who has a male ascendant living. [If a son is born in such a family, he acquires a right by birth in the ancestral property and if he should die within a few days, his interest in the property would pass back and would, unless exempted, be liable to duty.]

Clause 31.—From section 4, Finance Act, 1894, and section 12, Finance Act, 1900, and section 45(3), Finance Act, 1940.

Illustrations.—1. On the death of A the following properties pass:

(i) His free estate, immovable and movable, worth Rs. 1,00,000;

(ii) Property settled by his marriage settlement worth Rs. 1,50,000;

(iii) House property worth Rs. 2,00,000 settled upon him by his father by deed.

Now, if each of these properties were taken separately, the rate of duty might be, say, 3 per cent. for the first two and 4 per cent. for the third. But under the rule of aggregation they must all be added together to form one aggregated estate amounting to Rs. 4,50,000 and the rate for an estate of this amount might be, say, 6 per cent. Estate duty must be paid on each property at 6 per cent.

2. A dies leaving (i) Rs. 1 lakh in cash plus (ii) a policy on his own life for Rs. 1 lakh absolutely and irrevocably nominated from its commencement in favour of B. Estate duty is chargeable on (i) under section 4 and on (ii) under section 13, but the two cannot be aggregated because A had never an interest in (ii), the interest arising only upon his death.

Clause 32.—The clause leaves the rate of duty to be fixed by a separate enactment. The provision in clause (b) of the proviso is modelled on section 13(1), Finance Act, 1914.

Clause 33.—From section 7(5), Finance Act, 1894, and section 60(2), Finance Act, 1910.

Clause 34.—This embodies the principle enunciated in paragraph 275 of Volume XIII, Halsbury's Laws of England, Second Edition.

Clauses 35, 36, 37 and 38.—From sub-sections (6), (7), (8) and (9) of section 7, Finance Act, 1894.

In connection with clause 36 attention is invited to the Illustrations under clause 4.

Clause 39.—From section 8(8), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 40.—From section 7(1), Finance Act, 1894, and section 44(1), Finance Act, 1940.

Clause 41.—From section 57, Finance Act, 1910.

Illustration.—Property is settled on A for life with remainder to his only son B. A when in failing health, purchases B's remainder at a fair price, which in the circumstances is nearly the full value of the property giving a promissory note or mortgage for the amount. Upon A's death, the property goes to B as his only heir. But for the present section, the amount of the debt would fall to be deducted under section 43, although the property would have devolved upon B even without the purchase. By virtue of the present section however no such deduction is permissible.

Clause 42.—From section 31, Finance Act, 1939.

Clauses 43, 44 and 45.—From sub-sections (2), (3) and (4) of section 7, Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 46.—The English provision relating to collection of the duty is contained in section 8(1), Finance Act, 1894, which simply makes applicable to the collection of estate duty the existing law and practice relating to any of the duties leviable on or with reference to death.

Clause 47.—Adapted from section 34, Finance Act, 1917, and section 42, Finance Act, 1918.

The term "Government securities" is defined in the General Clauses Act, 1897.

Clause 48.—Adapted from section 8(3) and 8(4), Finance Act, 1894, section 16, Law of Property Act, 1925 and section 54(8), Finance Act, 1940.

Sub-clause (2).—See section 8(18), Finance Act, 1894.

Sub-clause (4).—See section 6(3), Finance Act, 1894.

Sub-clause (5).—See Halsbury's Laws of England, Volume XIII, paragraph 298.

Clause 49.—From section 8(5), Finance Act, 1894, and section 57 Finance Act, 1940.

Clause 50.—From section 8(6), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 51.—Adapted from section 8(3), Finance Act, 1894, and section 191 of the Court-fees Act, 1870.

Clause 52.—From sections 6(4), 6(6), 6(7), 6(8), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 53.—Adapted from section 11(1), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 54.—Sub-clauses (1) and (2) are adapted from sections 19H(3) and 19H(4), Court-fees Act, 1870.

Sub-clauses (3) and (4) are new.

Sub-clauses (5) and (6) are from section 19H(5) and (6) of the Court-fees Act, 1870.

Sub-clause (7) is adapted from section 10(6), Finance Act, 1894.

Sub-clause (8) is suggested by section 66A(2), Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, and section 19H(7), Court-fees Act, 1870.

Clause 55.—Adapted from section 191(2), Court-fees Act, 1870.

Clause 56.—Adapted from sections 19E and 19G, Court-fees Act, 1870; section 11(2), Finance Act, 1894, and section 14, Finance Act, 1907. In the majority of cases, the procedure will be that the person accountable will first deliver an account under clause 48(3) and pay duty on the property included therein under clause 53. Usually, the account will not be a complete one, for it has to be filed within six months of the death and full details may not be available. [See clause 48(4)]. In fact, it may have to be filled as early as possible, if the interest due under clause 52 is to be reduced to a minimum. This preliminary account will serve as a notice of the death to the Board, so that the Board may, if necessary, start making inquiries under clause 54. At a later stage, the persons accountable should be in a position to deliver a full statement, to pay the entire duty due, and to obtain a certificate of payment under sub-clause (1) or (5) of clause 56. In complicated cases, they can apply and obtain a certificate of payment under clause 58. It is only a certificate under clause 56 or clause 58 that discharges the property. (See clause 65.) A certificate under clause 53 suffices for a grant of representation, so as to enable the grantee as early as possible to get in all the property vesting in him, and to submit a full inventory as required by section 317, Indian Succession Act, 1925, but such a certificate does not operate as a discharge for the purposes of clause 65.

Clause 57.—Adapted from section 12, Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 58.—Adapted from section 13, Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 59.—Adapted from section 8(9), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 60.—Adapted from section 8(11), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 62.—Adapted from section 19J(1), Court-fees Act, 1870.

Clause 63.—Adapted from section 44, Succession Duty Act, 1852, and section 9(1), Finance Act, 1894.

Illustration.—A makes a gift of property to B and a year later B transfers it to C and A dies in the second or third year. In this case a charge for estate duty will attach to the property in the hands of C.

Clause 64.—Adapted from section 8, Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913.

Clause 65.—Adapted from sections 11(2), (3) and (4), Finance Act, 1894.

Clause 68.—Adapted from section 67, Indian Income-tax Act, 1922.

(3) No Bill or amendment making any provision which the Indian Legislature would not, but for the provisions of this section, have been competent to make, shall be introduced or moved in either Chamber of the Indian Legislature without the previous sanction of the Governor-General.

(4) Sub-section (2) of section one hundred and seven of the Government of India Act, 1935 (which relates to inconsistency betwen Federal laws and Provincial laws) and sub-section (2) of section one hundred and twenty-six of that Act (which relates to the giving of directions to a Province as to the carrying into execution of Federal laws relating to matters specified in Part II of the Concurrent Legislative List) shall apply in relation to a law enacted by virtue of this section with respect to any matter, being a matter with respect to which a Province has power to make laws, as if that matter were a matter specified in Part II of the Concurrent Legislative List.

3. Requisitioned Land.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in the Government of India Act, 1935, the powers of the Indian Legislature to make laws shall extend to the making of laws—

(b) providing, in particular, for the continuance as aforesaid of the power of the Governor-General in Council compulsorily to acquire any such land, as aforesaid for any purposes directly and without the interposition of any Province, any of those matters dealt with by the laws and fees in respect of any of those matters, but not including fees taken in any Court; and sub-sections (2) to (4) of the last preceding section shall apply in relation to any such laws as they apply in relation to laws made under that section.
